

Our Christian Family Value for July is ...

Respect

Who do you respect and why?

What sort of behaviour earns respect?

How will I earn the respect of others?

What do I do to show that I respect someone?

Respect is an Olympic Value

It refers to the notion of fair play, knowing and understanding your limits, taking care of your health and the environment.

We can think about respect in many ways...

- Self-respect: celebrating our gifts and talents, looking after ourselves, nurturing the best we can be, being confident about who we are, earning the respect of others
- Respect for grown ups: honouring our parents and those who care for us, helping at home, appreciating what is done for us, cooperation not conflict, taking responsibility
- Respect for authority: being prepared to listen and learn from those who have experience, responding to teachers, cooperating with those responsible for our safety e.g. the police force
- Respect for others: everyone is special, everyone's opinion matters, everyone's contribution is important, everyone's feeling should be considered, everyone's faith is sacred

Family Values activity:

The 10 commandments written in the Bible teach us a lot about respect.

Have a go at writing and illustrating your own set of commandments to teach what you think is important about respect.

10 House Points as always if you take part.

Respect yourself and others will respect you.

Confucius